DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. Figure 2 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

In line 1, "This invention is a fail-safe algorithm" does not make sense and contains a phrase that can be implied.

3. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: claims 1 and 8 do not comply with MPEP § 608.01(m) that requires each claim to begin with a capital letter and to end with a period. Periods may not be used elsewhere in the claims except for abbreviations. See Fressola v. Manbeck, 36 USPQ2d1211 (D.D.C. 1995). The capital letters should be used only at the beginning of the claim and for units and abbreviations.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

In claim 1, the feature of the efficient engine temperatures is not supported by the specification.

5. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. For the reasons indicated above one skilled in the art would not be able to make or use the invention.

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform to current U.S. practice. Below are several examples of indefinite and inconsistent language of the claims.

Appropriate corrections of all claims are required.

In claim 1, lines 7-8, “safe and efficient engine operating temperatures”, line 11, “acceptable engine temperatures”, line 12, “adequate power”, and lines 13-14, “noise, vibration and harshness kept to a minimum” are indefinite since they are not sufficiently defined in the specification, in line 14, replace “(NVH) is” with –are--.

In claim 2, “half its normal operating power” is indefinite and not defined in the specification.

In claim 3, line 2, “a determination” is vague and indefinite since it is descriptive in nature and it is not clear how and by what this determination is made, line 3, “the power output” lacks antecedent basis.

In claim 4, line 2, “kept to a minimum” is indefinite since the minimum is not defined by the specification, line 3, “the generator” lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claims 1, 3, 4, 7, 8, 10, 11, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kitada et al. (JP 406048189 A).

Kitada et al. disclose invention as claimed: a fail-safe engine cooling control system for a hybrid vehicle comprising an electric traction motor 8, an engine 1, an engine temperature sensor 5, a system 3 to cool the engine, a vehicle system controller 4, 9, wherein the fail-safe system maintains safe engine temperatures when the system to cool the engine fails and provides an adequate power to the vehicle to extend the vehicle operating range. The reduction of noise , vibration and harshness is inherent to the disclosed system.

Art Unit: 2834

Re claims 8, 10, 11, and 14, Kitada et al. disclose the system as claimed. Claims 8, 10, 11, and 14 that merely recite using the disclosed features together are inherent to the disclosed structure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 2, 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kitada et al. (JP 406048189 A).

Kitada et al. disclose the invention essentially as claimed, including parallel operation of the engine and the motor for the purpose of maintaining the acceptable engine temperature. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to limit the engine partial load to half of the operating power since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Re claim 9, Kitada et al. disclose the system essentially as claimed. Claim 9 that merely recites using the disclosed features together is inherent to the disclosed structure.

Prior Art

12. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
